Pie and Cake Making Are Demonstrated at Ogden Cooking School

Closing lessons of the Standard-Examiner cooking school will be given this afternoon at the Ogden high school by Miss Gertrude L. Woodruff and Miss Veda L. Hunsaker, the domestic science and baking experts who have been in charge of the school. The program will consist of the making of pies and other pastries.

In the lessons this afternoon, the making of cakes with butter was demonstrated, both the standard cake and the devil's food cake being made, as well as various icings. The making of angel's food cake and sponge cake was demonstrated yesterday.

Throughout the entire course there has been the greatest of interest among the many women attending the school. Question after question regarding general cooking and baking has been asked, the women seeking information in addition to that regarding the separate day's program. All of these questions have been gladly answered by the demonstrators, who have found that the interest of Ogden women in methods of cooking and in obtaining the best possible results is very keen.

Interest has been aroused in the domestic science department of the Ogden high school through these demonstrations, many of the visitors to the school realizing for the first time how thorough are the courses that are given there. The mothers of a number of school students have met both of the domestic science instructors, have been taught by them in the cooking school and have obtained their view of methods to be pursued regarding domestic science.

The cooking school has also taught the use of Ogden-made products to a large number of women, who have been shown that these Ogden products are the equal and, in many cases, the superior of other goods. There have been used in the Standard-Examiner cooking school such Utah-made goods as the Mountain brand ham, lard and bacon, Pierce's pork and beans, tomatoes, tomato soup, catsup and hominy, Nelson-Ricks Banquet Better Butter, Utah milk and cream, American-Maid bread, Van Allen's peas, Murphy's Hotel Utah coffee, Vinox and Ogden's Best flour from the Holley plant, and Amalgamated best sugar.

The demonstrators have been made of the most modern electrical household equipment. The Ogden women attending the school have not only seen small household equipment used, this including vacuum cleaners, percolators, irons, grills, toasters and hot plates, but also have had thoroughly explained to them the electric sewing machines, electric ranges, electric washers and electric ironers. Ogden electricity supply dealers have cooperated with the cooking school by showing a large number of these articles both at the school and in their stores during the week.

As to cooking utensils, the varying possibilities of those made from oven glass, aluminum, tin, granite ware and enamel have been plainly shown, the various articles being secured from the Richardson-Hunt company, which carries such a complete line of household essentials. The cooking experts have said that there are needs for all classes of cooking ware, though recommending aluminum as the most satisfactory for general use where only one type of ware is to be secured.

Although the cooking school has not yet been concluded, there have already been requests from many of the Ogden women that the plan be followed in future months by the Standard-Examiner and that the scope of the school be extended, both as to number of hours held each day and as to the number of articles demonstrated.

To accomplish such a plan in the future, it will probably be necessary to have programs beginning early in the afternoon and to have a large downtown hall or theatre. The anticipation is that such a plan, at least for an annual cooking school, and perhaps for a semi-annual school, can be provided, the dates for such a school being set so as to provide the maximum benefit for the Ogden women interested.

Outlets Increase Use of Electric Equipment

As explained by electrical experts of the Utah Power & Light company, electrical appliances are most valuable in the home only when the proper outlets are at hand for their use.

Although practically all electrical appliances may be attached to an ordinary light socket on the wall or ceiling and used with entire success, far greater comfort and convenience are achieved when baseboard, wall or floor outlets are provided in the different rooms to take care of the electric appliances, table lamps, iron and other things without moving electric light globes or in any way rearranging the furnishings or spoiling the appearance of the room.

In the dining room, for instance, outlets in a cluster form may be arranged under the table on the floor to conveniently handle an electric percolator, toaster, grill or waffle iron all at the same time. In the kitchen or laundry special baseboard outlets will take care of iron and washing machine and other helpful appliances. While in the bathroom one or two convenient outlets will give you the comfort of electric curling iron, vibrator, hair drier, shaving mug and other toilet aids.

Architects, as well as housewives, are recognizing the importance of proper outlets and are planning modern homes accordingly. In homes that have been built it is a simple matter for an expert electrician to install outlets wherever wanted.

Can't Have Too Many!

There's a Westinghouse electric appliance for almost every task in the housekeeper's day. No woman could have too many of these trouble saving devices.

Besides being so convenient, electric appliances save heat. Heat is money. They are provided with a fuel that runs through a wire just precisely while you are using it, and stops when you are through with it.

COLORADO COAL MINERS RECEIVE GOOD INCREASE

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 1.—The Victor American Fuel company and seventeen other independent operators yesterday signed a new wage agreement with the United Mine Workers of America, granting an increase of $1.50 a day to miners and 82 cents a day to scraper boys, placing the Colorado wage on a par with the central competitive field, according to union officials.

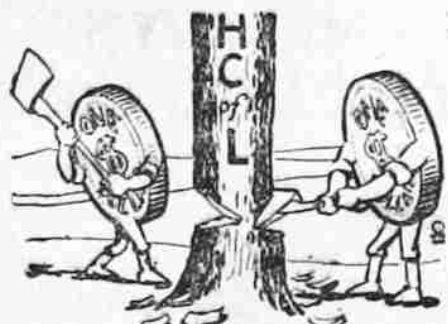

The Colorado Fuel & Iron company is not a party to this agreement. Union officials said that an increase of $1.25 a day had been granted by that company September 1.

Between eight and nine thousand men are affected by the agreement, union officials said.
